

RAPID BACK DOWN
AS TO HAWAII.SENATOR HOLMAN PREPARES A SWEEPING RESOLUTION

It Recites that this Government Has no Right to Interfere in Behalf of the Hawaii Monarchy and Can Only Guard Against Foreign Interference.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Democrats in congress are on the retreat in the Hawaiian matter. The house had a hot debate over Boutelle's Hawaiian resolution before Hopkin's of Illinois resumed the tariff debate. In the senate Holman of Indiana has a resolution to the effect that without regard to the justice of any action of Minister Stevens, congress must not aid in re-establishing the Hawaiian monarchy. It should be the duty of the government, he urges, to permit no foreign interference in the islands, and if the overthrown government re-establish itself congress may then recognize it.

Yesterday afternoon was devoted by congress to a review of the tariff question. A stirring speech was made by Congressman Burrows of Michigan, he declaring that the McKinley act had accomplished both the results for which it was passed—the encouragement of new enterprises and the protection of American industries and workmen against foreign competition. The decline of revenues this fiscal year, he suggested, was not due to any defect in the law of 1890, but to the general depression of business brought about by the ascendancy of a political party pledged to the destruction of our protective policy.

Tariff reform is finally interpreted to mean free raw material and reduction of duties on competing foreign products entering our markets below the protective point, regardless of the consequences to American industries or American labor. As a whole the proposition is to open our markets to the free importation of nearly $46,000,000 of foreign products, accompanied with the voluntary surrender of nearly $13,000,000 of annual revenue. He declared that the change in the wool and iron schedules would destroy those industries and give them into the hands of foreigners, and then turned to the general substitution of ad valorem for specific duties, of which he said: "When the chairman states that 'specific duties lead to greater frauds in administration' he flies in the face of a current of authority which he can not successfully resist. The method of levying duties has been the subject of thorough and repeated investigation, and it is not too much to say that ad valorem duties are condemned by the almost unanimous verdict of those whose opinions are entitled to respectful consideration. I invoke the judgment of every secretary of the treasury investigating the subject, from Hamilton to Manning, in refutation of the position assumed by the majority."

The remaining portion of the speech was devoted to demonstrating from statistics and history, the beneficial results of protection upon the country's material prosperity, as compared with the effects of the free trade era through which it had passed. After quoting figures to show the gigantic strides made in the thirty years from 1860 to 1890 under the operation of a protective tariff, Mr. Burrows closed his speech. He was warmly congratulated on his effort by his friends.

Mr. Black (dem., Ill.) spoke in defense of the Wilson bill. He spoke of the productive duties against Canadian agricultural products, although, he said they were no cheaper than similar American products and commented upon the fact that petitions had been presented in congress recently against allowing Canadian workmen to cross into the United States, work all day, and return at night. That, he said, was an instance of the false position into which the public mind had been forced by long worshiping at the altar of protection. In concluding his speech Mr. Black said: "I do not see why we should shrink from the name of free traders. Everything which the human race has won has had in its plumes the word 'free.' Free speech, free press, free thought. Everything worth having is free and in the end we will have the country free from unjust exactions."

Mr. Hopkins (rep., Ill.) a member of the committee on ways and means, spoke against the bill. At 5:30 the house took a recess. Mr. Hopkins will continue to-day.

When the house reassembled Mr. Haines (dem., N. Y.) spoke against the pending bill. Mr. Haines' speech was devoted altogether to a vigorous attack upon the schedules of the bill concerning shirts, collars and cuffs. The dread of the tariff reduction had already caused a loss of $2,000,000 to the wage-workers of Troy. In answer to a question of Mr. Bryan as to how much protection he wanted Mr. Haines replied that he wanted the protection afforded by the McKinley bill.

Mr. Woomer (rep., Pa.) then spoke against the bill.

Mr. Curtis (rep., N. Y.) also made a speech protesting against the passage of the bill, and at 10:40 o'clock the house adjourned.

IN THE SENATE.

Senator Chandler Withdraws His Resolution Regarding Blount.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—There was nothing of special interest in the routine business of the senate yesterday. A joint resolution was passed authorizing the secretary of the treasury to permit owners of cattle and horses transporting them into Mexico to reimpose them into the United States at any time within twelve months.

The resolution offered by Senator Chandler as to the authority for the appointment of Mr. Blount, without the advice and consent of the senate, was taken up. After some colloquy Senator Chandler withdrew his resolution, the subject matter within the scope of the inquiry now going on before the committee on foreign relations.

Senator Gray gave notice that at 2 p. m. he would ask the senate to proceed to the consideration of the house bill to repeal the federal election laws. After spending half an hour on the calendar the senate, on motion of Senator Gorman, proceeded to the consideration of executive business.

A resolution was offered by Mr. Allen (pop., Neb.) and laid on the table for the present, calling on the treasury department for information as to the sources from which the gold coin of the country (outside of the treasury) was received during the fiscal year 1893—to the amount of $86,000,000.

The senate also passed the following senate bill: To provide for the disposal of the abandoned Fort Maginnis military reservation in Montana under the mining and homestead laws for educational and other purposes.

Election Bill Will Not Be Rushed.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The house bill for the repeal of the federal elections laws was brought up in the senate yesterday, postponed till Monday next, and made the "unfinished business" after 2 o'clock each day until disposed of or displaced by some other bill. In the course of a colloquial discussion Mr. Gray (dem., Del.), who is in charge of the bill, announced his intention of pressing it, not in an extraordinary manner or against the traditional customs of the senate, but in the ordinary manner of pressing the consideration of unfinished business until the final vote is reached, and Mr. Chandler (rep., N. H.) who leads the opposition to the bill, expressed himself satisfied with the announcement.

Gold Reserve at Lowest Point.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The net treasury balance at the close of business yesterday: Gold, $73,613,655, and currency, $18,432,491. This does not take into account $6,223,301 paid on account of interest. The figures given show the gold reserve to be the lowest ever reached, it having been invaded more than $26,000,000. It is believed at the treasury department, however, the heavy payments always due about the first of the month being out of the way, that the gold reserve will not be diminished much further, and that the end of January will find the net balance not much below $80,000,000.

Vote to Unseat Joy.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—By a strict party vote the house committee on elections decided to recommend to the house that ex-Congressman John J. O'Neil be seated from the Eleventh Missouri district in place of Charles F. Joy, the sitting member, who is a republican.

Wine Producers Oppose Tariff Bill.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The members of the California delegation in congress have been urged by their constituents to oppose the wine clause of the Wilson bill, declaring it would ruin their industry. Resolutions have been adopted, representing over 25,000 people.

THE WHITE CITY FIRE.

Much Damage Done by the Flame Monday Night.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—The huge statue of the Republic at the east end of the court of honor at Jackson Park stands alone, a solitary monument to the glories of a scene that has brought exclamations of admiration and astonishment from thousands. Behind and on either side of it a broad expanse of black and smoldering ruins marks all that is left of the Peristyle, Casino and Music Hall, while in front the ice that covered the Court of Honor is dingy and gray with charred bits of wood that fell on it during the fire last night, save only an open space down the center that marks the course of the Fire Queen when she responded to the alarm.

On the north the Manufactures and Liberal Arts building was damaged. Huge blackened gaps way up on the roof beside the promenade showed where the fire had touched it, and inside charred pieces of beams, some partially burned booths and boxes and pools of water, with an occasional expanse of ice, proved that its escape from destruction must have been almost miraculous. Few boxes and packing cases were burned, however, and as almost all were zinc-lined and consequently water-tight the loss was not nearly so great as appearances indicated. The fire was undoubtedly of incendiary origin, and the order of the park commissioners allowing the public to come into the park at will and make such a fire possible is severely condemned by those officials of the fair who still remain at the park. The amount of the losses has not yet been figured up, but it will certainly not be more than a million dollars.

CRAZED ON THE EVE OF HIS WEDDING.BELOIT YOUNG MAN IS IN AN ASYLUM.

Dennis Fox Was to Have Been United in Marriage to Kitty Padden—Bans Were Published But the Ceremony Has Been Postponed Indefinitely.

BELOIT, Jan. 10.—Dennis Fox and Miss Kitty Padden, of this city, were to have been united in marriage at St. Thomas Catholic church this morning. The fact had been duly published by Father Ward, and all the preliminaries had been made for a joyous wedding. A home had been prettily furnished for the occupancy of the couple, and a week ago no bride elect could have been more happy with the prospect before her, than this young lady. But today, the wedding day, brings only sorrow to the bride and friends, for the prospective groom is in a cell at the state asylum for the insane, a lunatic. His insanity was seen to grow on him for several days before the case was believed to be serious. To get him on the train for Madison he was led to think that he was going to be married, and the young lady and a few friends accompanied him to the asylum.

Ives' Great Average.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Frank Ives tied Jake Schaefer's great average of 100 at fourteen-inch balk line last night at Central Music hall and defeated George Slosson by a score of 600 to 169. Ives secured the anchor throw and after that the game was practically over. The playing was so monotonous that most of the spectators left the hall.

The score by innings was:
Ives—0, 15, 76, 22, 0, 457. Total, 600. Average, 100.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 10.—When the Wisconsin Supreme court met yesterday Harlow S. Orton became chief-justice by virtue of seniority of service. He has been an associate-justice since the spring of 1878, and his present term does not expire until 1898. A general transportation of all the justices to the places due them by virtue of their seniority of services occurred.

Murderer Hart's Attempted Suicide.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Jan. 10.—Murderer John Hart, who cut his throat with suicidal intent, was better yesterday and it is thought will be well enough to be tried before the term is over. There is general denunciation of Sheriff Burbank for giving him a razor, especially after Hart had already made two attempts to kill himself.

Captured with Burglars' Outfits.

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio, Jan. 10.—James Cullen, alias Franklin, and John Burton were arrested for the blowing of Hart Bros.' safe last week. Cullen and Burton have been here for three weeks, claiming to be shoe men looking for work. A complete outfit of modern burglars' tools were found in their room.

Big Wolf Hunt but No Wolf.

ALGONA, Iowa, Jan. 10.—A grand county wolf hunt came off in the river country north of Algona yesterday. At 9 o'clock 500 men, in eight companies, began beating the woods toward the common center appointed six miles north of here. No wolf was rounded up.

Hundreds of Carvers Locked Out.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Five of the biggest firms employing wood carvers have locked out their men. Several hundred men are interested in the lock-out. The trouble is over the question as to whether eight or nine hours shall constitute a day's work.

Price of Sugar Raised.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—After a large business in refined sugars last week at the lowest prices on record, the trust yesterday saw its way clear to add a quarter of a cent a pound to the prices of all grades.

Mrs. Lease Will Not Be an Editor.

VALLIANT TO HANG

ON THE GALLOWS.

His Deadly Missile Spread Destruction Among the Deputies Four Weeks Ago—Laws Against the Reds to be Rigidly Enforced—Incendiary Fire in Berlin.

PIEXOTO IS STILL PRESIDENT.

Yesterday's Report of His Resignation Is Not Substantiated.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—President Piexoto has not resigned. A cable from Brazil positively denies yesterday's dispatches. The first report would not have been credited had it not been known that Mello as minister of marine, had matters so arranged when he inaugurated his revolt that President Piexoto was left practically without a naval force. Admiral Da Gama controlled what was left of the navy after the secession of Mello, but his disloyalty to the president, which had been suggested by his determined neutrality at the outset, was no longer left open to question when he recently yielded to Mello's overtures and joined forces with him. But while Mello and Da Gama were unquestionably in control of the water, Piexoto had a similar superiority over the rebels on land, with 5,000 men in the regular army and 10,000 militia, while the number of men at the call of the rebels has never been, according to Dr. Mendonca, the Brazilian minister to this country, more than 2,000 men. Moreover, the new war vessels recently purchased by the Brazilian government in New York were expected in a great measure to counterbalance the naval strength of the insurgents.

Meeting of Michigan Millers.

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 10.—The Michigan Millers' association annual meeting was held here yesterday. It adopted resolutions against a Michigan standard grade of flour; also, that a cut freight rate worked an injury to the millers. A demand is made upon the Central Traffic association for a 20-cent rate on grain and its products during the navigation season between Chicago and New York. Officers were elected as follows: President, W. A. Coombs, Coldwater; Secretary, M. A. Reynolds, Lansing.

Arcadia, Kan., Nearly Wiped Out.

FORT SCOTT, Kan., Jan. 10.—Arcadia, Kan., a town of about 2,000 inhabitants, twenty miles south of this city, was almost destroyed by fire yesterday. The fire caught in the rear of one of the largest stores about 11 o'clock, and could not be subdued until it had destroyed most of the business houses in the town. The merchants saved their stocks in most cases, but heavy losses were sustained. The water supply of the town was used up and the people had no effective means of combating the flames.

Governor Mitchell Still Determined.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 10.—The governor, in spite of the club's talk about bringing pressure to bear on him, is showing no signs of letting up in his opposition to the night. He is warning the sheriffs of every county in which it has been rumored that the club would attempt to bring Corbett and Mitchell together to be on the alert to prevent the contest, and if unable to prevent it with the forces at their disposal to call on him for assistance.

Plan of Reading Reorganization.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 10.—A plan of reorganization will probably be submitted to the stockholders of the Reading railroad company within a few weeks. As far as can be learned it provides for borrowing $15,000,000 upon collateral trust bonds. There will be no voting trust. The special master has been ordered to hear testimony in the suit for the removal of the receivers.

DESTRUCTION IN MICHIGAN.

Bellevue Badly Damaged by Flames—Loss About $80,000.

BELLEVUE, Mich., Jan. 10.—The largest fire that ever visited Bellevue burned for four hours last night, commencing at 6:30 p. m. It destroyed between $80,000 and $100,000 worth of property, including the largest store building in town. The fire originated in Robinson's old foundry building, used by Alderman J. Holland for storing baled hay. The Battle Creek and Charlotte fire departments were summoned and responded speedily. The trains with fire engines made a mile a minute. Most of those burned out carried no insurance on account of high rates. Other business houses destroyed are Hiram Owenshire's flour and feed store, Watkins' Bazaar, Fred Van's confectionery store and Frank Phelps' dry goods and clothing house partially destroyed by fire and much damaged by water. The fronts of Taylor's saloon, Eldred's harness shop and Kimbrey's grocery were ruined. The total insurance will not cover one-fourth the losses.

ESCAPE FROM A BURNING HOTEL.

Lively Experience of Guests at the Norwalk, Ohio, Maple City House.

NORWALK, Ohio, Jan. 10.—The Maple City house and contents, this city, Jacob Neuffer, proprietor, was damaged badly by fire at 3 o'clock yesterday. Many transient guests, with boarders, had narrow escapes for their lives, being nearly suffocated by dense smoke. Mr. Neuffer and family and hired but all escaped unhurt. Mr. Walters was awakened by the smoke, and hastily dressing himself groped his way down stairs through the smoke, fainting when he reached the first floor. Mr. Hoffman, a traveling salesman, escaped in his night clothes, leaving his effects in his room, but they were afterward obtained by Mr. Neuffer's son, who went up on a ladder and entered the room through the window. Mr. Hoffman became bewildered in the hall and was piloted downstairs through the blinding smoke.

Attempts to Burn a Packing House.

BOONE, Iowa, Jan. 10.—Two attempts have been made to fire the packing house of J. M. Doud & Co. The first, Sunday night, was discovered before any damage was done. William Martin was arrested the next morning charged with the crime and is now in jail awaiting the action of the grand jury. Last night another attempt was made and the sheds and adjoining buildings fired. The incendiary was seen, but not recognized. The fire was extinguished before more than $500 loss had been entailed.

ANTI-GEAR MEN WIN.

First Blood Drawn by the Combined Opposition.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 10.—The Gear men received a slight setback last night in the action of the caucus committee. A majority of this committee is anti-Gear, and when they met to decide upon the time of holding the caucus for election of state printer, state binder, and the wardens of two penitentiaries they concluded to call this caucus before the senatorial caucus and to do so they overturned the arrangements which the senatorial candidates had made to have that caucus held Friday night, and opened the caucus for the other officers for that night and set the senatorial over to the following Monday night. This action, it is admitted by some of Gear's friends, will have a tendency to hurt him, for there are bound to be some sore spots resulting from Friday night's caucus. For the four offices to be filled there are thirteen candidates, and of course nine men are bound to be disappointed. Gear's friends still claim he will be elected on the first ballot.

Coal Miners Accept a Reduction.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 10.—The special session of the Ohio district of the United Mine Workers met yesterday with nearly 100 delegates present. The probabilities are that the convention will agree to a reduction of 10 cents per ton for mining in order to enable the operators to compete with the Pennsylvania operators. The Ohio operators will probably insist on a 15 cent reduction.

Wilson's Son Denies a Report.

FAIRFIELD, Iowa, Jan. 10.—R. J. Wilson, the son of Senator James F. Wilson, whose home is in this city, said yesterday there was absolutely no truth in the rumor that the senator contemplates resigning. Mr. Wilson is now in Washington and has been since Dec. 1, attending to his duties, and a recent letter says his health is better than it has been for a year.

RIOTERS IN ROME
SHOT BY MILITIA.MOB SURROUNDS THE HOUSE OF MAYOR CRATO.

After Refusing to Disperse They Are Fired Upon by the Soldiers and Many Are Wounded—Seven of them Are Known to be Fatally Hurt.

ROME, Jan. 10.—A mob surrounded the house of Mayor Crato today and refused to disperse. The militia shot seven fatally and many are wounded. SEEN BY MRS. HORTON.

Meeting of Coughlin and Foy Near the Carlson Cottage.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—The approaches to Judge Tuthill's court-room were in the same state of siege yesterday as for the preceding week. The fact that Mrs. Horton, the state's latest sensational witness, was to testify, was enough to fill the room to overflowing. She was the first witness called and swore to seeing Daniel Coughlin and Andrew Foy together near the Carlson Cottage on May 12, thus corroborating the evidence of Mrs. Foy as to the proceedings of that day. Her cross-examination was conducted by Judge Wing in a merciless manner, but the witness was not shaken or confused in the least.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Horton's examination court adjourned to 2 o'clock. The cross-examination, severe as it was, did not in the least affect Mrs. Horton's testimony. Her statements as to having seen Coughlin and Foy together 100 feet from the Carlson cottage on May 12 were unshaken when she left the stand.

At the afternoon session the testimony given by Patrick Dinan at the former trial was read by Stenographer Squibb.

Joe McLaughlin has not yet been heard from. McLaughlin was expected to reach New York to-day by one of two steamers, one of which sailed Dec. 30 from Glasgow and the other a day later from Liverpool.

BUSY AT DES MOINES.

Elements in the Fight for the Senatorship.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 10.—There were two new rumors afloat here yesterday in regard to the senatorial question. One is that the friends of Gen. J. S. Clarkson, now in New York, will spring his name before the final fight comes. The second is that Senator James F. Wilson will resign immediately, as his health is very poor, and that a combination will thereupon be made with a short term vacancy to fill. The latter rumor is more apt to develop into something serious than the first named above, inasmuch as Mr. Clarkson has repeatedly written to his friends that he has no desire to re-enter politics—in fact, that he will not do so under any circumstances, as he is engrossed in business.

The senate was called to order at 10 o'clock and took a recess to allow the credentials committee time to complete its report. Democratic senators met and decided to place the matter of nominations for minor positions entirely in the hands of Senator Grone, such nominations being at best only complimentary, since none but republican caucus nominees are to be elected.

When the house was called to order the credentials committee reported and members went into the work of drawing for seats, which occupied some time.

SITUATION IN HAWAII.

No Change Reported—President Dole's Statement to Be Soon Ready.

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 10.—Additional news by the Warrimoo is to the effect that a brief correspondence took place between President Dole and Minister Willis after the sailing of the Corwin. Dole called Willis' attention to the continued state of apprehension in the community, caused by his attitude, and asked if he could not give him some assurance which would relieve this fear. Mr. Willis replied that the inquiry did not seem to be specific. Dole answered the 27th that the President's message, received that day, transmitting to congress the decision of the whole business, relieved the public mind and obviated the need of further inquiry. Mr. Willis expressed much irritation about Dole's making the inquiry. The situation is unchanged. President Dole is suffering somewhat from the reaction from the recent excitement and tension and the labor of preparing the reply to Willis' demand, the full text of which is soon promised the public.

KILLED HIS PARENTS.

Belief That a Young Man Committed Murder and Then Suicide.

MARIETTA, Ga., Jan. 10.—The Saner tragedy has developed into a double murder and suicide. Up to a late hour Monday night the son, Rufus Saner, could not be found, but later his body was discovered in the ruins of the barn with pistol by his side. It is thought he killed his father and mother and set fire to them. He then went to the barn, set fire to it and shot himself. When the son's body was found, his watch, some change and a box of percussion caps were found upon his person.

A second rich gold strike is reported from Crooked Creek, the new camp near Bunea Vista, Colo.

CHURCH GETS AN OLD MAN'S MONEY

Thomas McGraw Dies Near Cooksville and Leaves No Relatives.

COOKSVILLE, Jan. 12.—Thomas McGraw, who lived with old Mr. Allen two and a half miles northeast of Cooksville, died on Christmas morning. He has not been well for a number of years and had rented his farm. No will has been found and as he had no living relatives his property will probably go to the catholic church. His funeral was held Wednesday and he was buried in the Catholic cemetery in Stoughton. The little old box stove that began life with the good templars and moved with them from hall to hall and finally found a permanent home in the basement of the church, was sold to make room for a round oak. Its pieces now lie in the late fire. The insurance adjuster gave J. P. Van Vleck one hundred dollars, although his building was not properly insured. Everybody has been stripping tobacco and expects to "sort it if no buyers come along. Mr. and Mrs. Hanson were surprised the 26, of December by their many friends and presented with an easy chair and lounge, it being their fiftieth anniversary.

NEW CLUB TO ENTER LOCAL POLITICS.

IRISH AMERICANS OF JANESVILLE WILL ORGANIZE.

They Expect to Hold the Balance of Power Between the two old Parties and Think They Can Get Fairer Treatment by Presenting Their Claims Unitedly.

Janesville Irish Americans are planning to organize a political club for the purpose of taking a more active part in local political matters.

"We have in view the holding of the balance of power between the two great parties," said one enthusiast this morning in speaking of the organization. "We also propose to look to the interest of our own people—the Irish Americans. Look over the list of democrats in office. You do not see an Irish American among them. The republicans have an Irish-American as city treasurer. Among the appointed officers the democrat have Patrolman Hogan. Our society or club, when organized, will wield considerable influence, as it will not be bound to any party, but will aim to elevate only the best men to public position. We think we can organize a club of this kind with one hundred and fifty to two hundred voters, and with elections as closely contested as ours have been for some years. We will hold the balance, and can throw the choice easily one way or the other. I believe such a club will create a better influence in local politics. Similar clubs are being organized in all the cities and large villages. The Janesville organization will undoubtedly be ready for campaign work at the approaching municipal elections.

Five Famous Etchings.

The passenger department of the New York Central has just issued a series of five beautiful etchings, which artistically outrank anything of the kind ever issued by a railroad company, while the absence of any advertising features renders them suitable for hanging in your office, library or home.

A brief description of each, with a glance at their titles, is all that is necessary to obtain a fair idea of the pictures.

No. 1 is "Washington Bridge," which spans the Harlem river at 181st street—one of the finest bridges in the world, and a marvel of engineering. In the distance is Highbridge, the Croton Viaduct. In the foreground a characteristic river scene, that will be recognized by any one at all familiar with the locality.

No. 2,—"Rock of Ages, Niagara Falls," from a photo by William H. Jackson & Co., Denver. A view that has been admired by every one who has seen it. The soft tones in which it is printed add greatly to the effect of the falling waters and spray.

No. 3,—"Old Spring at West Point," also from a photo by William H. Jackson & Co., Denver. A romantic scene, recalling memories of summer days at the famous military academy.

No. 4,—"999 and the De Witt Clinton." The famous Empire State Express Engine "999" which occasioned such widespread comment at the World's Fair, occupies the top half of the card, and below appears the old "De Witt Clinton," affording a truly remarkable example of the progress of railroad science in the past fifty years.

No. 5,—"Rounding The Nose, Mohawk Valley." One of the handsomest railroad pictures ever made. The scene is just below Little Falls.

These etchings are all printed on fine plate paper, 24x32 inches, suitable for framing. Copies of either of them can be procured at the office of W. B. Jerome, 97 Clark street, Chicago, for fifty cents, or will be mailed in stiff tube, secure from injury, to any address, post-paid, for seventy-five cents, in currency, stamps, express or postal money order, upon application to George H. Daniels, General Passenger Agent, Grand Central Station, New York.

OUT OF PRISON AFTER 17 YEARS

Man Who Says He Is Bad, Borrows Money From Janesville People.

A man who said he was just out of Waupun after a seventeen year term, borrowed small sums from several sympathetic Janesville people in the last few days. He said he was sent up by Judge Conger for shooting a man in front of the old McKee store, now A. H. Sheldon & Co's. He tried to break jail soon after his arrest, he declared. The turnkey was overpowered and locked in a cell, but the sheriff's wife with the aid of Jack Dunn, frustrated the plans. Captain Norcross and Miss Lavinia Goodale defended him, and Judge Sale was prosecuting.

An attempt was made to break jail seventeen years ago, and the sheriff was given a handsome revolver by the county board as a reward for his bravery. No record of a shooting on Main street appears on the books, however, and the police think the man is not as sinful as he claims.

The usual treatment of catarrh is very unsatisfactory, as thousands can testify. Proper local treatment is positively necessary to success, but many, if not most, of the remedies in general use afford but temporary relief. A cure certainly cannot be expected from snuffs, powders, douches and washes. Ely's Cream Balm, which is so highly commended, is a remedy which combines the important requisites of quick action, specific curative power, with perfect safety and pleasantness to the patient. All druggists sell it.

YEARS OF PEACE FOR MRS. GARFIELD.

LEADING A QUIET LIFE AT FAR FAMED MENTOR.

Some Pen Pictures of the Place Toward Which a Nation Once Looked With Fride—The Children of the Martyred
President are Doing Well.

A N HOUR'S RIDE from Cleveland along the shore of Lake Erie brings the traveler to Mentor, the old home of Garfield, and once the most famous village in America. Living there to-day in retirement, in wealth and the enjoyment of her beautiful home, is Mrs. Lucretia Rudolph Garfield, the widow of the President who fell a martyr to misguided political strife.

The nation never knew Mrs. Garfield as it has known the wives of other Presidents. She never cared for society, and as mistress of the white house she was little seen. Besides, she was a sufferer from ill health, and was ill and away from Washington when her husband was shot. He was about to go to see her, to try to cheer her into health, when the bullet of Guiteau cut short the journey at the threshold of the railway station. Millions watched with her in spirit at her husband's bedside, wept with her at his grave, and then, when the tomb had covered all that was dear to her, Mrs. Garfield passed from the public gaze.

In the exciting days of the campaign of 1890 the plain country cottage of the republican candidate was filled with politicians from all the states of the Union. In photographs and newspaper pictures it was a familiar sight. Here was the scene of that historic meeting between Garfield and Conkling, and in the little office building that stood in the yard Grant and Blaine and other republican chieftains have met, to smoke and talk over questions of party expediency. Here it was that Garfield received the news of his election, standing among the crowd of his loyal townspeople. But now the little office building is gone and the cottage itself is joined to a great stone mansion that looms up before the visitor like some grand chateau. It is the finest dwelling in all the neighborhood.

Now there are large, neatly painted barns and spacious lawns, where Garfield, were he alive, might enjoy himself at his favorite pastime, "Presbyterian billiards," as he styled it, or croquet, as it is more familiarly known. The noble trees surrounding the house were planted, most of them, by Garfield's own hand.

With its modern furnishings and luxurious appointments, the interior of the new Garfield home is in strange contrast with the old. Mrs. Garfield would not destroy the old house her husband had built. She merely added to it, and insists that the new part is only an addition and the old house the main part of the establishment. And this idea is the more impressive from the fact that you enter through the original hallway of the cottage. You pass into the same hall where Garfield put on his overcoat that cold day in February and said farewell forever to "Lawnfield." In the hall there hangs the sword he wore when he won a major-general's commission at Chickamauga. There, too, is a painting of him in the uniform of a brigadier-general, the face wearing the warm, kindly expression which always characterized it.

The reception-room is especially interesting to the visitor, because it contains some of "Grandma" Garfield's own furniture, which she had when she was left a widow with four young children—"young saplings planted here in the wilderness," as her husband called them in his dying admonition. An old photograph in the room represents Garfield as a rugged farmer boy, roughly clad, with shaggy hair, ill-combed, if combed at all. Then there is another picture, made nearly fifty years ago, when the old-fashioned daguerreotypes were in vogue.

Relics, pictorial and otherwise, of Garfield's life are found in many places about the house. But by far the most interesting is the letter he wrote to his mother one hot August day during his struggle with death, when he felt strong enough to sit up in bed. Propped up with pillows, he wrote with pencil and pad the now famous letter to his mother, and insisted on directing the envelope in his own handwriting. It was the only letter he wrote during his long illness, and while she lived, Grandma Garfield valued it above all earthly possessions. She had it framed and hung it on the wall beside her bed. And there it hangs to-day, although somewhat yellow and faded.

There is a plainly but neatly furnished room adjoining what was the parlor of the old home, which is known as "Grandma's" room, because for many years and until her death the mother of Garfield lived in it, surrounded by the closest and dearest relics of her boy "Jimmie"—for thus she called him even when he was the President of the United States. He loved the name when it was spoken by her loving lips. Here in this room she sat in the dark days of 1881 when her "Jimmie" was dying. She sat by the window each day reading the worn family bible and looking with anxious eyes for the messenger bearing telegrams from the sick room.

When Garfield died at Elberon in September, 1881, his five children were old enough to realize their great grief. There was Harry, the eldest, whose full name was Harry Abram, the middle name being for his father's father. Then came James Rudolph, having the family name of his mother. Next in years was "Mollie," for no one at home ever called her by her christening name of Mary. Irwin was next, and then Abram, the baby boy, who had the run of the white house after the family moved from Mentor in March of 1881.

The eldest son was at Williams college, at Williamstown, Mass., when his father was shot, and after graduation he studied law, and took his degree at the Columbia college law school. He does not resemble his father in any respect, although some of the family friends do not agree to this. Nor does he resemble his mother; he has a passive, resolute face, but it lacks the constant smile and genial expression of his father's generous good nature. He does not care for politics, but prefers the hard routine of the law. He is a diligent student, and he gives advice to clients in a cold, hard, dictatorial way, very unlike the father. Both he and James R. were admitted to practice in their native state after creditable examinations. On Sept. 14, 1888, he married Miss Belle Mason, daughter of James Mason, a wealthy Cleveland lawyer. At the same time Mollie Garfield was married to J. Stanley Brown, her father's former private secretary. It was a notable social event.

James Rudolph Garfield's personality is suggestive of that of his father. In Cleveland every one says "Jimmie" looks like his father and "acts like him," too. He is well thought of on his own account, and great things are expected of him. Some day he hopes

THE GARFIELD MANSION AT MENTOR, to represent his father's old district in congress.

Mentor is in Lake county, and in the same old senatorial district which the father once represented in the Ohio legislature. Two years ago young Garfield was a candidate for state senator, hoping to begin his political career at the same age as did his father and in the very same district. A nomination was equivalent to election, but he failed to secure the support of Summit county, and met defeat. His wife was Miss Newell, the daughter of John Newell, president of the Lake Shore railway system.

Irwin McDowell Garfield is a bright-faced young man of twenty-three and a graduate of Williams college. He will, when older, look much like his father. He has decided to be a lawyer. Just now he is an undergraduate in the Harvard law school and has not yet made up his mind where he will practice.

Abram Garfield, the youngest son, is a student at the Boston School of Technology. He has not developed his father's great love for the classics, but prefers the ever new wonders of science. He is barely of age and is a bright, alert youth of whom all in the family are proud.

Besides the President, "Grandma" Garfield had three children, Thomas and James, the sons, and two daughters, one of whom is dead. Mrs. Trowbridge, the other daughter, lives at Solon. Thomas is a plain, unassuming farmer, near Jamestown, Mich. He was the eldest of the family, but lacked the force and ambition of the younger brother, who soon became the virtual head of the household. During his mother's lifetime Thomas journeyed to Mentor once a year to see her, but he has made few visits since her death. At his brother's funeral the plain farmer brother was overlooked in the great throng. Yet there was no more sincere mourner in the Garfield family.

The largest stone arch is the Union arch of the Washington aqueduct, 220 feet broad and 100 feet high.

The Forum

"The Greatest of all our Periodicals."

The foremost men of the world write the literature of contemporaneous activity for THE FORUM.

This reduction in price at once gave THE FORUM the largest circulation ever reached by a periodical of its class—exceeding all expectations.

To many thoughtful people, the price of The Forum has hitherto been prohibitory; indeed all the great Reviews have been too high in price for the masses of intelligent readers. But now the number of readers of thoughtful literature—men and women who wish really to know what is going on in the world outside the narrow limits of particular sects and parties—is great enough in the United States to warrant so revolutionary a reduction in price. The Forum discusses important subjects, but it is not dull. The literature of contemporaneous activity is, in fact, the most interesting of all literature. American citizenship implies that a man shall know the opinions of the foremost men and the latest great achievements in every direction of activity.

SIZE AND QUALITY UNCHANGED.

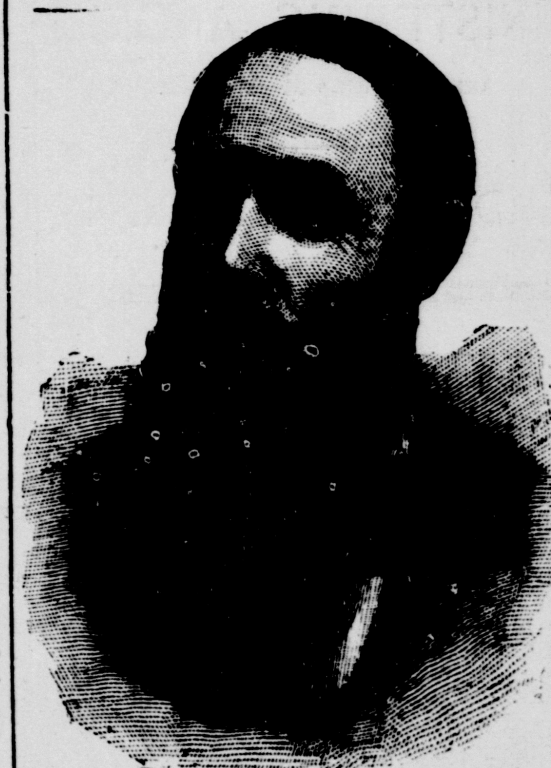

The Forum is now as cheap as the magazines of mere entertainment.

G.A.R. NOTICE

We take this opportunity of informing our subscribers that the new Commissioner of Pensions has been appointed. He is an old soldier, and we believe that soldiers and their heirs will receive justice at his hands. We do not anticipate that there will be any radical changes in the administration of pension affairs under the new regime.

We would advise, however, that U. S. soldiers, sailors, and their heirs, take steps to make application at once, if they have not already done so, in order to secure the benefit of the early filling of their claims in case there should be any future pension legislation. Such legislation is seldom retrospective. Therefore it is of great importance that applications be filed in the department at the earliest possible time.

If U. S. Soldiers, or their widowed children, or parents desire information in regard to pension matters, that should write to the Press Claims Company at Washington, D. C., and they will prepare and send the necessary application, if they find them entitled under the numerous laws enacted for their benefit. Address:

WANTS WOMEN TO WRITE.

Mrs. J. Ellen Foster sends to the women of the country the following terse statement. It comes in the name of the Woman's Republican Association and reads:

"One year ago last November, the voters of the nation thought they wanted a change in its industrial policy; the change has come.

"The present administration at Washington came into power amid conditions of prosperity which even this favored nation had never known.

"Heaven had furnished the basis of prosperity. Fertile soil, genial sun shine, growing rains, immense natural resources, answered man's toil, and brought returns in bountiful harvests, and abundant raw material for manufacturing interests.

"Mills and factories were in full operation; the hum of machinery, the ring of the bell and the shriek of the engine were the music of industrial prosperity.

"This prosperity was secured and assured through the American system of a protective tariff.

"The democratic party, the advocate of free trade, assumed control of the government under contract to repeal this tariff which it declared unconstitutional.

"Uncertainty as to what the democratic party in congress will do, and the fear that it will enact free trade, have unsettled the commercial world and brought a panic of distrust to finance and trade.

"Mills and factories are closed, and idle workmen and work women walk the streets, in vain seeking an opportunity to earn an honest living.

"Soup houses and clothing dispensaries now take the place of 'pay day' comforts and luxuries. Nor is there prospect of better times, unless the people of the whole country make themselves felt at Washington.

"There is now pending before congress, a measure known as the Wilson bill. It embodies in substance the delusive theories of tariff reform. It is now supported by the administration and a majority of the members of congress. If it becomes a law, many industries will be unable to compete with the pauper labor of the old world, and will be permanently closed. Others will compete; but labor will be the loser. Wages will be cut down to the foreign level, in order that the American manufacturer may compete with the importer of foreign wares.

"More than three millions of workmen are—because of these conditions actual and prospective—out of work today. Add to this number the dependent women and children, and then count the famishing host.

"Can nothing be done?—Yes. DEFEAT THE WILSON BILL.

"Let every woman who suffers or who cares for those who suffer, write—at once—a letter or postal card to her member of congress and to both senators from her state, asking these representatives of the people to vote against the Wilson bill.

"Many of these men, perhaps all, desire to serve their constituents, women as well as men.

"Let them not be ignorant of what the people want. Do this, women, and do it immediately. Your personal request may be the one to turn the tide against this un-American measure. For this for the home and the flag."

"During the epidemic of la grippe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy took the lead here and was much better liked than other cough medicine." H. M. Bangs, draught, Chatsworth, Ill. The grip is much the same as a very severe cold, and requires precisely the same treatment. This Remedy is prompt and effectual and will prevent any tendency of the disease toward pneumonia. Memoirs of the Prince de Joinville.

The Prince de Joinville recently completed his memoirs, and they will soon be given to the world. They ought to make interesting reading, for the prince has seen much of the world in the 75 years of his life. He has some new stories to relate, it is said, of the court of his father, Louis Philippe. His account of his experiences in the French navy, in PRINCE DE JOINVILLE, which he rose to the rank of vice admiral, should be very valuable, and it will be interesting to note his opinions of America.

At Vera Cruz he captured General Arista, and he served with distinction at Mogadore, in Morocco. He begged for employment in any capacity with the army of France in the Franco-Prussian war, and under the title of Colonel Luthero did a little fighting for his country. Gambetta was afraid of his influence, however, and banished him from France, but he was soon back again and was elected to the assembly. In 1886 he was banished again, and his name was stricken from the rolls of the navy.

A BRIBE OF $3,000 IN THE STONE CASE

Matthew Ashton Accused Of Proposing Crooked Work.

TESTIMONY VARIES FROM THAT PREVIOUSLY GIVEN.

Present Depositions Do Not Wholly Agree With Those Made Before the Coroner's Jury--Biederman Not Sure of the First Remark That Matthew Ashton Made.

A flat avowal from Ex-Marshall Spangler that Matthew Ashton had proposed bribing District Attorney Wheeler for $3,000 electrified the crowd in the circuit court this afternoon. Spangler says Ashton wanted him to be the "go-between."

Alta Cady, the son of Mrs. Biederman and grandson of Mrs. Stone, was the first witness sworn. Mrs. Preston and the detective were down stairs when the witness came down, he sleeping up stairs with the men. Mrs. Preston and the detective were saying that Mrs. Stone had disappeared, and the detective told the witness to take a horse and go to James Murwin's. Mrs. Stone was not there, so he returned. The witness then told of the search for Mrs. Stone, and the examination that he made of the dishes that the chickens were fed, in finding that they had been unused. Cady said that he then fed the chickens and they all ate as if they had not been fed and were hungry. When he got back to the house they resumed the search; this time looking for her clothes, and found them all in their accustomed places. Before coming down stairs that morning, he had heard no disturbance. The witness had opened the cistern door once when someone asked if the cistern was full of water? A snap catch held the door and in addition there was a nail on the bottom. The latch on the door of the facsimile sink was the same as that on the sink. The nail was driven into the threshold at the bottom of the door, which opened and shut rather hard.

Not Home the Night of the Clubbing.

The witness also told about the assault on Mr. Stone but at the time it was committed the witness was at the home of a neighbor.

"I rapped on the door," he said, "and when I got home Mr. Stone said 'who is there.' I told him and he opened the door. Then he told me that some one had hit him and asked me to go and see where Mrs. Stone was, she having gone to Ashton's."

Mrs. Stone he thought was back in five minutes. He then told of Mr. Stone's injuries as he noticed them.

ED. ABLETT.

In cross examination Cady said that he had given testimony at the coroner's inquest. Mr. Winans had a copy of the boy's testimony in that investigation and questioned him on the story he told then. The story was developed that young Cady had built a play house near the house and that some one had torn it down.

"Did you not say that if you knew who did that you would either shoot or club them," Mr. Winans asked.

"Do you smoke?"

"No sir."

"Do you know that a pipe stem was found, out where the clubbing took place?"

"I heard so."

"Did you know that a pipe was found in your trunk that corresponded with the stem found?"

"No sir."

"Did you have any pipe stems in your trunk?"

"Not that I know of."

"Did Daniel Stone smoke?"

"No sir."

Heard no Alarm.

The witness did not hear an alarm after Mr. Stone had been struck. Cady's testimony in relation to the time he arose the day of the murder and the time he left Bradley's house the night of the assault on Mr. Stone varied somewhat from the testimony before the coroner, as did also some other statements such as when he was called. Cady's testimony in relation to feeding the chickens was also shaken somewhat, he having sworn before the coroner's jury that he fed only small chickens and not the large fowls. He also testified to feeding some meal dried in the pan that was used in feeding the small chickens. At the inquest he had said that the meal was dried only on the edge. The statement as to who was present at the time was also different.

C. G. Biederman's Story.

C. G. Biederman, the son-in-law of Mrs. Stone was the next witness. He was notified of Mrs. Stone's disappearance by a man who came his house to ask if he had been there. When Ashton drove up he asked if she had been yet and then enquired if they had looked in the cistern. Ashton opened the cistern door, Murwin and Cody being present. The witness then threw in a grappling hook and got a lantern which he let into the cistern, it gave a very poor light so he pulled it out. After they looked in the cistern the witness thought Ashton went to his own house. He didn't think Ashton was at Stone's home more than five minutes. After Ashton went home, Spangler, Burt, Bradley and the witness went toward the river two of them going to Ashton's. Some one asked if anyone had looked in the cistern and the witness said he had. Burt, Spangler, Bradley and Merwin then let the witness into the cistern on a rope. When he got hold of the body by the garden rake, he thought the body was on top of the water. The men lowered the other end of the rope in the cistern and the witness then tied the rope around the chest of the body and the men pulled the witness out.

Cistern Smooth Inside.

Then they pulled up the body. The bottom and walls of the cistern were cement. Biederman said he knew but little of how the body was taken out as he had gone and sat down by the stove.

Cross examination developed the fact that the first question that Ashton asked was an inquiry as to whether Mrs. Stone had been found or not. He was not sure that Ashton's first remark was, "Have you looked in the cistern?" as it had been asserted he did. Then the search of the cistern was begun, the witness letting a lantern down. The lantern went out before he attempted to lower it, and was relit. It did not then go out, but furnished but little light. A comparison of testimony before the coroner brought out some difference in the two statements. The air in the cistern was not bad, and the witness made no complaint of its being bad.

Water Had Been Drawn.

Martin Rabyor finished his testimony at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. In continuing after dinner he said that the door leading to the sitting room was closed, he thought when he and Ablett came down stairs. He was in Stone's employ at the time of the assault on Mr. Stone and was at Ashton's with the other hired men when he heard of it. Mrs. Stone told him of the assault, Ashton's eight-year old son being present. He first saw Mrs. Stone when she opened the door and told him that someone had tried to murder Mr. Stone. The hired men, including the witness went up to the Stone house, Mrs. Stone remaining at Ashton's. When they arrived at Stone's they went in and talked about the assault and the witness saw the cut on Mr. Stone's head.

On the cross examination Rabyor said that Cady was not at home at that time and the witness did not see the detective but thought he heard him come down stairs about half an hour after the witness had gone to bed. Before the witness came down stairs Sunday morning he heard Ashton drawing water at the well as was his habit of doing all the time that witness was on the farm except when Mr. Stone did it himself. It was Ashton's daily habit to empty the well pail that always stood in the kitchen. The pen was about fifteen rods from the house and the witness afterward saw the empty pail at that place. The trough that Ashton had filled with water and at which Rabyor and the others watered the stock that morning held water enough for the animals.

Had Mrs. Stone Been Crying.

The witness said that he saw Mrs. Stone when he came down stairs on the morning of her death. He thought her voice softer than usual and from her voice he judged that she had been weeping, but did not see her face as she kept her head turned the other way. The witness did not know where the detective was when he got up and did not know whether he was in the house or not.

Rabyor said he did not hear Mrs. Stone call for help after Mr. Stone had been struck on the night of the assault. He was at Ashton's house at the time. The witness then went up to Stone's. Mrs. Stone got there before Mr. Ashton did. Stone spoke of offering a reward and Mrs. Stone said she didn't think that there was any use because the guilty person could get away by that time.

Edward Ablett was the next witness and his story did not vary from that of Rabyor. His story of their seeing Mrs. Stone and the conversation with his son was the same as Rabyor's except that the detective first told the witness that Mrs. Stone had disappeared, and that he thought they watered nine or ten horses at the trough that Ashton filled.

Ex-Marshall Spangler's Story.

George L. Spangler, the ex-city marshal of Edgerton, was the first witness in the afternoon. The witness is now night clerk in the Washington Hotel at Chicago. He was city marshal of Edgerton for seven years. After the assault on Mr. Stone the latter came to him and wanted the witness to work on the case and find out who committed the assault. Mr. Spangler's personal efforts were not satisfactory to himself, so he wrote the Pinkerton agency to send a man. They sent Burt, who reported to Mr. Spangler. Burt went to the Stone farm and remained there until the day of Mrs. Stone's death.

The morning of the alleged crime Burt came to Edgerton for Spangler, and the two returned together, arriving at the scene at 10:30 or 11 o'clock. Mr. Spangler told of the search that they made. They met Mr. Ashton near the barn and Burt asked him why he wasn't looking for Mrs. Stone. Ashton replied that he had been and so had the hired men. Spangler and Burt returned to the Stone house and searched the cistern. He told of Biederman's making a ladder which was too short, so they got the hay rope from the barn.

With the hay rope they let Biederman into the cistern and with a garden rake he found the body. Then the rope was tied about the body and it was taken out. Spangler explained in detail how the rope was fastened about the body.

Says Ashton Talked of Bribery.

Spangler had a conversation with Ashton before leaving for Chicago Ashton coming to Spangler's office and C. L. Brown being present, in which Ashton said that his uncle, Daniel Stone sent him (Ashton) to Spangler to see if he (Spangler) could get District Attorney Wheeler to drop the case.

The witness quoted Ashton as saying that two or three thousand dollars would cause it to be dropped. Spangler said he could not do it as he (Spangler) could be arrested for attempting bribery.

Ashton said that he thought Wheeler was getting from $800 to $1000 a year and he thought that $3,000 would cause the dropping of the case.

Defending Bitson Cost $300, While District Attorney Wheeler Gets But $1,000 For His Entire Year's Work--County Board Begs Its Session With Plenty of Work.

When the county board came together today their was smoke in the air.

Supervisor Mayhew had some questions to ask. He had just seen Attorney T. S. Nolan's bill of $300 for defending Bitson.

"We pay our district attorney only one thousand dollars to prosecute criminal cases and attend to all the legal business of the county for a year," said he to a reporter, "and at the same time the county pays almost as much to an attorney for defending one criminal doing a single trial. I dare say District Attorney Wheeler would be glad to exchange places. Either the district attorney's salary should be raised or the pay of attorneys appointed to defend criminals should be cut down to correspond with the other."

Another point that Supervisor Mayhew wants to know about is the sale of county bonds in bulk to the Rock County National bank. His constituents in Clinton appear to possess considerable wealth. Some of them had an idea of investing some of their spare cash in county bonds, an object to paying an extra premium in obtaining them.

FIRE CHEAPER THAN INSURANCE. Eastern Leaf Men Driven From Edgerton by High Rates.

High insurance rates are driving some of the heaviest leaf packers out of Edgerton. Charles J. Maltress was in town last night having finished the transfer of a thirty-two carload packing from Edgerton to Pennsylvania.

"The saving in insurance," said he to a Gazette reporter, "will make almost a fair profit on the leaf."

The tobacco market has been more active during the past week than for some months past. The arrival of eastern buyers shows conclusively that the Wisconsin tobacco market is not yet dead by any means, and the prices paid indicate that the tobacco is of better quality than was supposed. Most of the sales of the past week have been at prices ranging from seven to ten cents. W. W. Childs has started a force in his Edgerton warehouse stemming the '92 crop.

SKATED INTO THE ICY RIVER.

Ralph McGuire Had a Cold Swim Near Greenland Last Night.

If Ralph McGuire, fourteen year old son of P. McGuire, hadn't been a good swimmer last night he would have drowned. He was skating and started off by himself to take a run up the river. Reaching Greenland point he mistook the open river for a sheet of smooth ice, and made swinging strides to reach it. He plunged feet first into fifteen feet of freezing cold water, and the momentum of his body sent him well out from the edge of the ice. It was dark, and he could see nothing but the snow bank on the shore. It was useless for him to call for help, so he mustered all his strength to save himself. He swam to the ice. Luckily for him it was strong and before his strength failed or his body had chilled, he succeeded in pulling himself upon solid ice.

VERSATILE VERA.

New York Lady Who Is a Journalist in London.

Mrs. Alfred Berlyn, who is well known to English readers as "Vera," as born in New York, educated at Queen's college, Harley street, and received a journalistic training under her father, Mr. Bernard H. Becker, the well-known journalist, to whom she acted as assistant, says the London Lady's Pictorial. After her marriage to Alfred Berlyn in 1885 she took seriously to journalism—in which profession her husband is also engaged—and has been associated with the leading women's papers, especially with the Lady's Pictorial.

She has also written a number of short stories, and contributed special articles on social and other matters to various periodicals and weekly journals. As a writer of smart essays and descriptive papers Mrs. Berlyn is well known in the provincial press. Mrs. Berlyn's bright and sympathetic style endows all her work of unfailing interest, and she is gifted with that excellent and rather unusual thing in a woman, a keen perception of humor, which often makes itself pleasantly conspicuous in her work.

ALIKE IN ALL COUNTRIES.

The Inventor Is Ever the Same, no Matter What He Has Invented.

The cycling inventor is always with us. In an attempt to score six for cyclists and several dozens for himself, he never ceases by night or day to plot and plan for the supercession or radical improvement of what is in the hope of what may be. But many a time and oft, and mainly through blind faith in his creations, of his brain, does the poor fellow burn his fingers and issue from his ventures alas! poorer, but eldred wiser, than he entered. It is regrettable always that habitual inventors can seldom see that, with a single mind originating a sequence of inventions, there must exist varying degrees of merit and originality. In fine cases out of ten every inventor's nose is to him a swan, and it is hard for him to see it in any other light. Nothing is sadder than to hear of a man devoting time, thought and money to working out an idea, when that idea is known to specialists as one which has been tried in the fire of experiment and found wanting. The pen of ingenuity can seldom bring himself to believe they are not first and original inventors, or that their inventions, clever though they may be, are of no practical utility. Expert, educated opinion, is the last, and not as it should be the first, thing they seek when the inventive afflatus is upon them, and it, therefore, often happens that they frequently labor for weeks and months at a time, only to discover ultimately that they have traveled without avail, and all their work has been thrown away. Our strong and persistent advice to the man of ideas and devices is to request the advice of one or more accredited experts before he spends time and money upon what may be but dead sea fruit after all.—Cyclist.

Catarrah In The Head.

Is undoubtedly a disease of the blood and as such only a reliable blood purifier can effect a perfect and permanent cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best blood purifier, and it has cured many very severe cases of catarrah. Catarrah oftentimes leads to consumption. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla before it is too late.

A Victim of Lunatics.

"The Man of Iron," otherwise "Giles the Wizard," was one of the persons put to death during the witchcraft persecutions at Salem, Mass. His real name was Giles Corey and at the time of his awful death he was an old man past 80. When accused of being a "wizard" (which the Salem lunatics seem to have considered the masculine of "witch") he calmly met their charges and coolly informed them that he would die rather than admit that he had ever had communion with evil spirits. He was put to the peine forte et dure (death by pressure with huge weights), his fortitude during his dying moments winning for him the title used in the first line.

Growth of Liberalism.

For the first time on record a Hebrew has been gazetted officer to one of the crack highland regiments of Queen Victoria's army. These regiments, notwithstanding their Scotch origin and dress, are nowadays composed mainly of Englishmen, Welshmen and Irishmen. But this is the first time that they have had on their rosters a highlander of the chosen race, which, prior to the present reign, was barred from holding positions in the army and navy, and even from membership of parliament.

Superstition in China.

The official Gazette of Peking published six columns in a recent issue in which were enumerated the emoluments and honors conferred on the 423 physicians who attended the emperor's mother in her recent serious illness. The Gazette protests against the doings of the Buddhist priests, who, during her illness, were continually denouncing the locomotives, to whose smoke and whistling they ascribed the illness.

A New Year's Gift Heralded.

The measureless popularity of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has been the growth of more than a third of a century. As in the past, the coming new year will be ushered in by the appearance of a fresh almanac, clearly setting forth the nature, uses and operation of this medicine of world wide fame. It is well worth perusal. Absolutely accurate in the astronomical calculations and calendar will, as before, be valuable characteristics, while the reading matter will include statistics, humor and general information, accompanied by admirably executed illustrations. The almanac is issued from the publishing department of The Hostetter Company at Pittsburgh, and will be printed on their presses in English, German, French, Welsh, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish. All druggists and country dealers furnish it without cost.

The Advertising

Of Hood's Sarsaparilla is always within the bounds of reason because it is true; it always appeals to the sober common sense of thinking people because it is true; and it is always fully substantiated by endorsements which, in the financial world would be accepted without a moment's hesitation.

H. S. BUNDY ON TOP AFTER 20 YEARS

THE OLDEST MEMBER IN THE HOUSE.

Was Once a Millionaire and Known as the Iron King of Ohio—Defeated for Congress Twenty Years Ago He Yearned for Vindication.

EZEKIAH S. BUNDY is the oldest congressman in the house, having passed his 76th year. He entered this congress at the beginning of the regular session, having been elected in November to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Gen. Enochs of Ohio. Congressman Bundy is not a stranger in his place of honor. Back in 1870 he was called the Iron King of Ohio, and went to congress from nearly the same district which he now represents. At that time he was supposed to be a millionaire, because of his extensive holdings in furnaces and iron lands throughout the Jackson mining region. He was a lawyer, too, but practiced little, save when he was his own client.

After serving two terms he was defeated in 1874 by John L. Vance of Gallipolis. The old man was badly broken up by this defeat, because it was a defeat of principles which he held dear. He had stood up for the rights of the colored men and had supported, from conviction, the civil rights bill. His course caused his defeat, and he always yearned for vindication before he died. Several times he has endeavored to get one more term in congress, and the death of Gen. Enochs gave the veteran his long-sought and prayed-for vindication—twenty years late, but, nevertheless, in time to round out his career.

He was a character and a forceful man when in congress before, and he is now, for his years, wonderfully vigorous. He is a "natural born orator." Besides he is known throughout all southern Ohio as the king of storytellers, and he will probably soon rival John Allen as the wit and yarn-spinner of congress.

Among other things, old Ezekiah is proud of the fact that his son-in-law is ex-Gov. J. B. Foraker of Ohio, who, back in 1869, married Julia Bundy at the old house in Wellston. Foraker was then a poor young lawyer, but intensely ambitious.

Old Father Bundy said to him after the wedding: "Look here, Ben, don't go to Cincinnati to begin practice. You'll starve to death in that great city. Stay right here, look after my business, stick to your work in a quiet way. There is a living in it anyhow, and after a while perhaps we can elect you a common pleas judge."

But this flattering offer did not suit Foraker, and a little over ten years afterward he was the nominee for governor of Ohio, and held the office four years, having been the candidate of his party on two occasions.

Bundy's eloquence is like that of Ingersoll's, but he is even more witty, and perhaps more homely in his expressions. His great wealth melted away after the panic of 1873, and he was glad the other day when he was sworn in to find that $2,000 salary was awaiting him.

Shooting Off Your Mouth

Should be "Shooting" with care or some reporter will catch the shot and quote you thus:

FREE TRADE WOULD BE ALL RIGHT

Alderman Carrington is Anxious to Have the Tariff Question Settled.

"There is no need of people crying hard times," said Alderman Carrington this morning. "This country is bound to prosper, whether it is free trade or protection. If congress would do either one thing or the other the country would be all right. If it is free trade laboring men will get down to a wage system of thirty cents a day, and so economize their living expenses that they will save one third of this amount, and the country will prosper. Manufactured articles are about exhausted, and the supply being short manufacturing must be resumed on some self-sustaining basis."

However this is a fair report of what Mr. C. did say but he didn't say it for "print."

What we do believe and what any thinking man or woman must believe is that the country is so rich, so vast, so grand in its resources that no political upheaval, let them upheave as they may, can cripple us for any great length of time. We believe in a protective tariff. Most sensible people do; some people don't and they are an honest some, and a sensible some too; but we believe beyond everything else in our country, UNDER ALL conditions. If the powers that be will settle on some policy be it TARIFF or FREE we will (as a people) pull ourselves together and work on the basis that the "powers" elect and we shall win. No policy of government, or those that make laws, can cripple the country FOR LONG. We are not politicians we ARE real state dealers. We have some bargains in our line. Come in talk business, let politics alone.

Yours very truly,

GEO. L. & SARAH H. CARRINGTON.
